

Italy: Riparbella – your Tuscany Wineyard near Siena

About Riparbella

From the grape-entwined pergola you can enjoy a view over our olive grove to the historic town of Massa Marittima. In clear conditions you can see the mountains of Elba and Corsica on the horizon, even a point of Follonica bay.

Riparbella is surrounded by 46 acres of its own woodland and country, which we cultivate according to organic guidelines. Below the pergola you find the long rows of artichokes, our vegetable and forest fruit gardens and the herb beds with rare, cheerful blooms of sage and mint varieties. Cats and dogs are just as much part of the scenery as donkeys. Downhill are our vineyards, the grapes we make our own wines of. In the converted guest-house there are 11 rooms with shower/WC, a covered terrace, the restaurant and lounge with traditional hearth, as well as a bar. We have carefully renovated all buildings to ecological standards.
